TWENTY CENTS

SIGNS OF THE TIMES: Pranksters are credited by Ken Rodgers of the 2400 block of Edwards St. with filling his yard with about 20 signs for various candidates in the April 4 election. The prank was apparently done about 3 a.m.

Monday, the time a neighbor witnessed someone taking a sign from his own yard. Only one sign was displayed in the Rodgers' yard prior to the prank, he said.

Granite cleanup seeks volunteers

By Dennis Grubaugh
Managing editor

GRANITE CITY — Backers of the 10th annual city cleanup are shooting for their most successful campaign this April, and they are on the prowl for more volunteers.

Sponsored by the Community Pride Committee, a division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, the cleanup will take place Saturday, April 15, said Mary Brown, committee chairman.

"We'd like to have as many as possible (participate). Right now we're talking about 15 teams, but we can certainly have more," Brown said. An "18-hole golf" theme will be used, with teams assigned to various "holes" for cleanup.

Cleanup will focus mainly on Illinois 203 from Interstate 270 to Madison Avenue; and Illinois 3, from the interstate as far south as possible.

"Each 'fairway' will be a stretch of street or highway to be cleaned of trash," said Brown.

"Each team will be assigned a specific 'green' to clean. Upon completion the team will pick up the flag on the green and bring it to the 'club house' to turn in the flag and the team's scorecard," she said.

So far the following groups have committed to helping the cleanup:

Granite City Business and Professional Women; Waste Management Inc. (the Chain of Rocks Landfill operators); Neighborhood Watch of Venice; Central Bank; Magna Bank; the Women's Division of the chamber; the Granite City Township Assessor's Office; two groups from the Charles Melvin Price Army Support Center in Granite City; the Board of Realtors; and the Granite City High School National Honor Society, Student Council and lettermen.

Boy Scouts and Girls Scouts will also have designated routes.

Participants should be high school-age and up, she said. The event will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. A special lunch will be given at Wilson Park at Brown.

(See CLEANUP, Page 10A)

Labor to endorse candidates

GRANITE CITY — Labor will set the record straight Wednesday night when it gathers to endorse its choices for area mayors and other candidates.

The March 15 meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Labor Temple.

The recommendations of the Council's Political Screening Committee will be given to all affiliated union members within the Quad City area jurisdiction, said Roger Hoover, local chairman of the AFL-CIO.

Hoover said the session will put to rest "rumors" that have circulated regarding endorsements.

"There seems to be an undercurrent of rumors between two or more individual area political factions as to who Labor has already endorsed," Hoover said.

"These factions involving the mayoral election have grossly overexaggerated the importance of the screening committee's results, and, have, in error, judged these 'rumored' endorsements to be binding."

Hoover would not say which elections are involved, but said it was mainly supporters and not the actual candidates who are responsible for the inaccuracies.

No endorsements for offices on the April 4 ballot can be publicly announced until the delegates of the council have discussed and debated the issues and concerns of labor in the Quad City area, Hoover said.

A two-thirds majority vote of legally seated delegates is required for endorsement, he said.

Madison anti-drug group plans survey

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

MADISON — What do two ministers, two politicians, two recreation directors, a police chief, a high school principal and a city resident all have in common?

In this case, a desire to stamp out illicit drug use. They make up the executive committee of a new anti-drug force in the city.

The group is an yet unnamed, focusing instead on a needs assessment survey for School District 12 residents and students.

In addition to the nine, 13 others from various walks of life participated in a three-session "community impactor training" program led by Piasa Health Care of Collinsville. The training program covered general information on alcohol, marijuana and cocaine; the addiction process; effects of abuse on the family and children; and theories on abuse prevention with available programs.

"The problem will always be here," High School Principal Bob Mehelic said during the group's recent meeting. "There will always be some of it (substance abuse) regardless of what we do. What we need to do is diminish it and establish control over it."

Six of the other executive committee members were present including Mayor John Bell, Police Chief Charles Bricker, the Rev. L.D. Tate of Mount Nebo Baptist Church, Rev. Tom Sucarotte of the Nativity Orthodox Church and Madison Recreation Directors Jim Broadway and George Smith.

John Hamm III, school board president and 3rd Ward alderman, and resident Karen Owens were absent.

Smith was concerned by news reports on the cheap production of synthetic drugs that have stronger effects than their pure counterparts.

"We need to look away ahead to this," Smith said. "If it's cheaper to make and cheaper (for users) to buy this will lead to larger street distribution."

Identifying drugs both visually and by their many slang names poses a problem for some people, Bricker said. He related a story in which a local woman went to visit a friend and was approached by a woman who asked, "Are you looking for white girl (slang for cocaine)?"

Unfamiliar with the terminology, the woman replied, "Why no."

I'm looking for the black lady who lives over here."

That may sound like an old vaudeville skit but ignorance is anything but bliss when it comes to drugs, the group believes.

That's why a cover letter to accompany the survey this month explains the group's purpose as "to determine goals for education, the prevention and treatment of drug abuse."

The survey results will be used to help establish those goals and to generate proposals for state and federal grants used to combat substance abuse.

Following a final draft reading by all of the 22 members, the forms will be distributed at the high school and middle school, local churches and recreation centers and mailed home to parents of elementary students beginning the week of March 27.

Reader files appeal, suspension delayed

GRANITE CITY — The two-day suspension imposed on police Sgt. Jim Reader by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners has been put on hold pending a judicial review of the board's decision.

The stay was granted Monday by Associate Judge Jonathan Isbell in Madison County Circuit Court. Isbell will hold the review hearing, but no date has been set.

The board voted March 6 to suspend Reader because it decided he had violated department policies in connection with his absence from work in October 1987.

The department had sought a 30-day suspension.

The appeal charges no evidence exists to support the board's decision. The appeal seeks reversal of the decision.

Venice dismisses 32

VENICE — Following a public hearing last Thursday night, 32 District 3 employees are to receive letters of honorable dismissal by midweek.

Teachers with employment dating back to 1970 were among 22 dismissed. Based on a separate resolution, 10 service employees will receive the same notification.

"We hope that we will get funded again so that we can call everybody back," Superintendent Charles McCaskill said.

McCaskill said finances of the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center were uncertain, as most of the programs are state and/or federally funded. Other programming affected by a lack of government funding would be the grade school's Chapter 1 program, he said.

McCaskill said the letters were to be sent by Monday.

Last year, 20 teachers were dismissed but all were rehired by midsummer.

McCaskill said previously that the dismissal notices were an annual precaution taken by the district.

SEMC awaits magnetic resonance scanner

GRANITE CITY — A new, advanced scanner will be placed in use during April at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

SEMC officials see it as a significant advance, ranking along with last year's imaging and heart catheterization breakthroughs.

The high-tech world of magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) and cardiac catheterizations arrived at SEMC six months ago last year. They have been busy ever since establishing themselves as vital patient services," said George Garrius, director of radiology. Approximately 736 patients were tested in the MRI unit during the first year of operation, and another 150 received cardiac catheterizations in a six-month period.

"MRI makes it possible for area physicians to get detailed views of the spine, brain and soft tissue without the use of radiation, while cardiac catheterizations allow cardiologists and cardiovascular surgeons the ability to obtain crucial information about the condition of a patient's heart."

"MRI was expected to cause a 10 to 20 percent decrease in CT (cat scan) activity in 1988, but CT activity actually experienced a 2.9 percent growth."

"The age and condition of the current CT scanner called for the need to purchase a new one, which will be housed in a new suite being completed on the ground floor."

"The Radiology Department will unveil the state-of-the-art Picker 1200 expert system in April."

"The new CT system will offer the patient quicker scanning time at higher resolution," said (See SCANNER, Page 10A)

Township officials unopposed

GRANITE CITY — No write-in campaigns have yet materialized and neither Granite City Township incumbent faces an opponent on the ballot in April.

Supervisor Nelson "Nellie" Hagnauer and Assessor Darlene Laub were the only candidates to file.

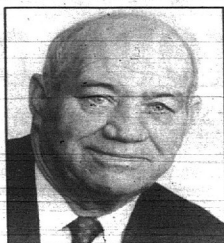

Hagnauer, 61, has been supervisor since 1961 and said he is qualified by experience. He said he plans to continue the services and programs successfully established during his previous terms.

He is also chairman of the Madison County Board and chairman of the Madison County Transit District. A former chairman of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, he currently serves as vice chairman of that organization.

Hagnauer is a lifelong resident of Granite City and attended Sacred Heart grade school and Granite City High School. He is a member of VFW Post 1300, AMVETS Post 51, Eagles Aerie 1128, the National Association of County Officials, the Illinois Association of County Officials, the Madison County Township Officials and the Township Officials of Illinois.

He is Catholic. He and his wife, Bernice, have two children.

Hagnauer received the 1988 Spirit of Cooperation Award from the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council and was the 1987 Citizen of the Year named by Elks Lodge 1083. He was inducted into the Illinois Softball Hall of Fame in 1980 and the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame in 1987.

Laub was elected assessor in 1985. She said she believes assessments must be made fairly, professionally, strictly in accordance with state statutes and without political favoritism or penalty.

"That's the way I've conducted this office for the past four years and that's the way I'll conduct in the future," she said.

Laub was born in Stewart County, Tenn., and has lived in Granite City most of her life, attending Granite City schools. She and her husband, Frank, have three children.

Laub is a member of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, the Business and Professional Women, Rotary, Eagles Auxiliary and Elkettes.

A certified Illinois assessing officer, she is a member of the St. Louis chapter of the International Association of Assessing Officers.

SEMC begins pulmonary rehab exercise

St. Elizabeth Medical Center is starting a new program for individuals who have emphysema, cystic fibrosis, bronchiectasis, bronchitis, asthma or restrictive lung disease.

"The goal of the new Outpatient Pulmonary Exercise Rehabilitation is to improve the quality of life for respiratory patients through individual counseling, education and exercise," said Laura Tungett, R.N., an exercise specialist with the new program.

A personalized exercise program is designed for each participant, based on the results of a risk assessment and exercise test.

Exercise sessions will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays or Fridays in the morning and in the afternoon for participants' convenience.

"Through their exercise program, participants will strengthen the muscles used in breathing, making it physically easier on their bodies to breathe," Bev Mottl, R.N., also an exercise specialist with the program, said. "They will also feel better and be able to do more of their normal activities because of the increased efficiency of their muscles."

Throughout the exercise sessions, participants' blood pressure will be checked and their oxygen level will be measured. Respiratory therapists and nurses, who are certified by the American College of Sports Medicine as exercise specialists and are certified in advanced cardiac life support by the American Heart Association, will supervise the exercise sessions.

"We want to focus on education. It will reinforce all other portions of the program," Mottl said. "The nurses, dietary consultants, respiratory therapy, physical therapy and social services will all provide education and counseling."

The education portion will include increasing participants' awareness of respiratory irritants. They will also learn helpful breathing and coughing techniques, how to conserve energy, how to relax and how to practice effective bronchial hygiene.

Participants will remain under the care of their primary physician.

Besides the exercise specialists and respiratory therapists, a registered dietitian will be available for nutrition counseling; a social worker will provide stress counseling; and a physical therapist will evaluate individuals for orthopedic limitations. Also, if necessary, an occupational therapist will evaluate the individual and consult for energy conservation techniques and vocational rehabilitation.

"Participants in the program should be able to carry out their daily activities more effectively," Tungett said.

The program is located in the Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa St., Granite City. A physician's referral is required to participate. Medicare and most major insurance firms cover 80 percent of the program cost. The SEMC Outpatient Business Office will file insurance claims.

The phone number for information on the program is 788-3559 or 788-3936.

Haine: Self-defense citizen's right, but must be 'reasonable'

By Scott Cousins
Staff affiliate

EDWARDSVILLE — When facing burglars or other criminals, citizens have the right to defend themselves and their property, but only in a "reasonable" manner, according to Madison County State's Attorney William Haine.

Haine was one of the speakers at a recent seminar on rural crime. The seminar was sponsored by the Madison County Farm Bureau and the U of I extension office.

"I'd like you to keep in mind the word reasonable," Haine told the group. "It is an old, well-used word in the law. The hallmark of the law is reasonableness."

Illinois statutes allow people to use force to protect themselves and others when they reasonably believe such force is necessary against an immediate violent action, he said.

Deadly force, or force intended to or likely to cause death or "great bodily harm," can be used only to prevent an immediate threat of death or great bodily harm, or to prevent the commission of a forcible felony.

"Keep in mind we assume there is no chance to call police," Haine added. "The first duty of a citizen in our system is to call the police and to use proper legal authorities to enforce the law. No one is justified in taking the law into his or her own hands except to defend oneself or another from the imminent use of force."

In defending property, it is legal to use force to stop someone from entering or attacking your home, he said.

However, deadly force can be used only if the entry is "made in a violent, riotous or tumultuous manner, and you believe such force is necessary to prevent an assault or prevent a felony."

"You have to visualize a tumultuous entry," Haine said. "If someone is breaking down your door, you may shoot to defend your dwelling, or you may pick up a cudgel or knife to defend your dwelling."

The statutes become vague on your rights when you wake up in the night and someone is in the house, Haine said. In general terms, if the person does not leave, a homeowner is permitted to use deadly force.

"It depends on circumstance," he said. "Do you reasonably believe you are going to prevent the commission of a felony?"

He said the state's attorney's office "would tend to look with favor on a homeowner finding someone in their home in the dead of night (and using deadly force against them), especially if there was evidence of forcible entry and that intruder has placed people in fear."

He also said force could be used to stop a crime such as a purse-snatching.

"You have a right to defend another against someone stealing their purse, to tackle them to hold them (the assailant) and to hold them," he said.

However, he said it was important to keep in mind all these things involve risk to citizens.

"It's difficult for men to accept this," he said. "I was in the army 20 months and Vietnam for a year, and we were taught that after two beers we could lick any guy in the house — except Marines," he said.

"But if you're going to defend another against a crime, you have to realize the risk to yourself and to that person from a violent reaction."

He said using a weapon to stop such an attack is especially tricky.

"It's always better to call a trained law officer, who is much more able to use those guns and weapons to enforce the law," he added.

He also cautioned against going too far. Haine said that several months ago a man was charged after he took several persons to the police station at gunpoint to confess to robbing his apartment.

The senior citizen

Senior fair on March 20

St. Elizabeth Medical Center will once again be participating in the annual Senior Citizens Fair at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Monday, March 20.

The 19th yearly fair is set for 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m., in the University Center, according to Nancy Kaprielian, director of Hospice Volunteers and SEMC coordinator for this event.

The day-long fair, which attracted over 3,000 senior citizens last year, will provide seniors with an opportunity to obtain information on social service agencies, health organizations and many other area programs that serve older adults.

Films, workshops and tours, as well as dancing to the music of the Frank Cherry Orchestra, will also be featured.

Brochures being provided by St. Elizabeth Medical Center at this event include information on Hospice of Madison County, Home Health, At-Home Professional Care, Skilled Nursing, Respite, Guest Unit, Going Strong Wellness Program, Life-Line, Mobile Meals, Cardiac, Stroke and Pulmonary Rehabilitation, Physical and Respiratory Therapy, Audiology, Laser Eye Surgery, Mammography, MRI and Surgery.

The Senior Citizens Fair is sponsored by the Gerontology Program (622-3454), Student Leadership Development Center and Student Government of SIUE.

GC Council of Seniors meets

The Granite City Council of Seniors will host an evening of games March 27 at the Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave. All seniors 55 and over are welcome. Membership is now required, but can be done anytime and costs only $1 a year. Refreshments will be served at 6 p.m. and games start at 7.

Anyone needing a ride should call Gertrude Barkley at 876-8039 before March 20.

TRAVELING BAND: Members of the Senior Quilters Club who meet at the Chouteau Township Social Center each Thursday traveled to the Madison County Sheltered Care Center in Edwardsville on Feb. 28. They presented the residents with 50 pairs of warm socks. They also took homemade cookies and apple cider and invited the "Silver Strings," a country and gospel group, to provide music for an afternoon of entertainment. Present were Sally Segar, club president, and her husband, Fred, Daisy Ferguson and Maxine Duniphan.

Funding provides help for seniors via BAC program

Free safety bars for bathroom fixtures are available to senior citizens, courtesy of Belleville Area College's Programs and Services for Older Persons.

The equipment, designed for seniors with limited mobility, is being paid for out of funds from the Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging; $4,811 has been made available to PSOP to purchase the safety bars, which will be installed by the Belleville Jaycees.

"Anybody who is referred to us is eligible to receive this service," said Eugene Verdu, executive director of Special Programs at BAC. "Each case is assessed by the Visiting Nurses Association to determine need."

Belleville Jaycees are volunteering their time to install all of the equipment. Mel Weith, board chairman, said the group is eager to help. "Since we have worked with PSOP in the past, we wanted to help with this project. About 20 people have volunteered their time," he said.

The funding was made available to PSOP in November, and Verdu said he hopes to provide assistance to approximately 50 persons.

For further information, Anne Smith can be called at 234-4410, extension 13.

Cardiovascular Lab is offering technologically advanced tests

The former Electrocardiogram (ECG) Lab at St. Elizabeth Medical Center has grown from a small laboratory which mainly performed electrocardiograms, to a modern technologically advanced lab using non-invasive methods to study the cardiovascular system, according to Marita Knapczyk, Cardiovascular Lab supervisor.

"Since performing ECGs is only one service we offer," said Knapczyk, "we now prefer to be called the Cardiovascular Lab."

In addition to cardiac services, the department offers vascular testing, carotid duplex scanning, upper and lower extremities, PPG (blood flow study of the toes) and other vascular studies. Technological advances in the study of the cardiovascular system have made it possible to see into the heart, arteries and veins without surgery or other invasive techniques. This causes less stress to the patient and removes the possibility of post-operative complications.

Some of the non-invasive tests offered at the Cardiovascular Lab at SEMC include:

•The Carotid Doppler Study, designed to determine the presence and extent of hardening of the arteries in the carotid arteries.

•The Peripheral Doppler Study, designed to determine the amount of obstruction or vascular disease present in the legs or arms.

•The Venous Doppler Study, designed to check for possible obstruction in the veins of the arms or legs.

"We also offer Color Echocardiography with Cardiac Doppler," Knapczyk said. "Recent technological advancements have enabled documentation of Color Blood Flow previously obtained only by means of invasive contrast studies."

"These two procedures now complement each other to look into the heart from the outside and assess the severity of heart disease. Our department has been offering this procedure for quite a while, and is very proficient at it."

Using more modern technology, video recordings can be made of the procedures, allowing physicians to view and interpret the tests at their convenience, and allowing for a complete record to be kept of the test for later comparison.

"In the near future," said Knapczyk, "we will also begin angiodiagnosis, which is the latest state of the art in Color Vascular technology."

St. Elizabeth Medical Center offers several other services for cardiac patients:

•The Cardiac Catheterization Lab, for patients with more severe heart problems.

•The Critical Care Unit, designed to provide the cardiac monitoring and close observation cardiac patients require.

Village issues licenses

By Valerie Evenden

Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — Three more businesses joined a growing list of new business firms in the village area when licenses were granted by the Board of Trustees.

Licenses were approved for a new business center, a florist shop and a pet shop during a recent meeting.

Bob Simon of the 1800 block of Spring Avenue requested a license for the new Pontoon Business Center located at the corner of Lake and Oakmont drives.

Offices planned for the center include insurance sales, property management and development and a construction business.

Simon informed village officials. Dana Ficker, 2577 Stratford Lane, was granted a license for Willis Flowers by Dana, a florist shop with flowers and party items at 4070 Oakmont Drive.

Also receiving a business license were Leonard Clover and Reatha Huff, both of Washington Park, who proposed opening the Friendly Pets and Supplies Shop at 4149 Pontoon Road, specializing in small pets and supplies.

Three village businesses inadvertently omitted from the recent Progress edition included Werner Chapel for Funerals at 3929 Lake Drive, Lee's Angel Cream at 4007 Pontoon Road and Ann M. Doyle Income Tax Service at 3949 Pontoon Road.

A TALE OF PROMISES & HOPE

The Granite City Press-Record editorial of April 4, 1985 congratulated Von Dee Cruse upon his election victory and summarized his campaign promises:

"Von Dee, you've made many campaign promises and already, your community influence has resulted in the public voting to ask the council to repeal the telephone sales tax. We are sure you will exert yourself in getting the council to agree with the public on this issue."

"Other promises you have made, and that the electorate shall be looking to see accomplished over the term of your office, are immediate work to improve the downtown area, establishment of a public works department, updating and enforcing of the city's building codes, establishment of a community development group that you will personally work with to draw new business to the city, establishment of a youth activity center, improvement of the city's sewer system before the Corps finishes its study, never raising taxes without a referendum, and holding public forums which will allow the people to comment on city affairs."

"We wish you the very best, Von Dee, in securing (the City Council's) cooperation, and in seeing that the promises that helped get you elected are fulfilled in timely fashion for the benefit of the people you serve."

THE RECORD

Von Dee, where is the Public Works Department? Where is the Community Development Group? What has it accomplished? Where is the Youth Activity Center? When will you deliver on your 1985 referendum to cut the utility tax? When and where did you hold your Public Forums?

93 cholesterol screenings here

In celebration of National Nutrition Month, St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Outpatient Cardiac Rehab Program and the medical center dietitians held a successful cholesterol screening with professional consultation at the Granite City Schnucks Store, 3401 Nameoki Road, on March 7.

"Ninety-three people were seen during four hours of screening. We tried to move as quickly as we could, so we could get as many people as possible tested," said Bev Motil, R.N., exercise specialist with Outpatient Cardiac Rehab.

"It went well. Everyone who participated seemed receptive. Because it was done on a first-come, first-serve basis, there was a wait at times but no one seemed to mind."

The screening was done to help area residents become more aware of their cholesterol levels and the effects diet has on cholesterol.

High blood cholesterol levels have been associated with a greater chance of heart attack and stroke. However, it is a risk factor that can be controlled. For some, blood cholesterol levels can be reduced by eating less cholesterol and saturated fat and exercising regularly.

"Since March has been dedicated to nutrition education throughout the nation, we wanted to make people in this area aware of how easy it can be to eat in a heart-healthy way," said Exey Basuel, chief dietitian at SEMC.

Additional screenings will be done at the following locations this month:

•Tuesday, March 14, at the Cahokia Schnucks, 1615 Camp Jackson Road, Cahokia.
•Tuesday, March 21, at the Collinsville Schnucks, 501 Beltline Road, Collinsville.

Cholesterol screenings with professional consultation will be held from 2 to 6 p.m., on a first-come, first-serve basis. The charge for the screening plus a consultation on the results with a registered dietitian or registered nurse is $5.

Also, a limited number of cholesterol screenings with professional consultation will be offered at the Wellness Center at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The charge will be $5.

Pre-registration is required. To pre-register for the Wellness Center screenings only, persons may call 798-3935.

The screenings at the Wellness Center will be held on the following Wednesdays, from noon to 3 p.m.:

•March 22.
•April 19.
•May 17.
Basuel said, "If you are worried about the levels of cholesterol and saturated fat in your diet, SEMC offers an individualized Diet Program. A registered dietitian will meet with you, analyze your current diet and suggest ways to improve it. For more information on this program, the number is 798-3492.

Thompson's speech ignores tax

SPRINGFIELD — After two straight years in which he had devoted much of his budget addresses to urging legislators to approve state income tax increases, Gov. James Thompson did not mention the issue while presenting his 13th annual budget on March 1.

Instead, the governor described his spending plan for state government for the fiscal year starting July 1 as "a muscular budget, neither malnourished nor bloated with fat."

"It has the strength to lead us into the '90s and get a fast start in the world marathon for high-tech jobs and increased services," Thompson added. "Our schools, the brains and the brawn of the Illinois economy — have subsisted on a low-cal diet of state funding. This budget puts meat and potatoes back on the menu."

His speech also touted some new initiatives, including $50 million more for anti-drug abuse efforts and $30 million aimed at spurring more high-technology research and use by industries in the state.

The budget "moves Illinois forward in a variety of ways — improving our schools and our business environment, making our state a safer place for law-abiding citizens and a more hostile environment for the drug pushers," among others, he said.

Scanner

Garrigus. "It will reduce the scanning time up to 10 to 15 minutes per scan, allowing for more patients to be tested within any given day."

Procedural activity in the MRI unit is expected to "slowly increase" over the next couple of years, and Garrigus said he anticipates activity in the cardiac cath lab to increase as well.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center currently shares a mobile MRI unit with Alton Memorial Hospital under a lease agreement with Innovation. The contract was recently extended for an additional year and will expire in June 1990 if not renewed again. Owning and housing a fixed MRI unit would cost between $1.5 million and $2.5 million, depending on the strength of the magnet used.

MRI works its "magic" by using magnets and radio wave frequencies rather than radiation and dyes. It produces unique computerized images of body parts obscured by bone on normal X-rays.

The majority of our MRI procedures are associated with the evaluation of the central nervous system," Garrigus said. "Examinations such as spine and brain scans are performed two days per week with an alternating third day every other week."

Eight to 10 patients are usually scheduled each day, one hour apart from each other.

The actual time for the scan is between 30 and 40 minutes, but another 10 to 15 minutes is needed to review the patient's history and check for any contraindications that may not make them a candidate for MRI," said Jim Britton, a technologist with Somerset Mobile. "We also explain the exam to them and help them get settled in. It's very important that they don't move during the exam so we can get the best exam possible."

A normal exam is usually broken down into about three scans or sections, each taking roughly eight to 10 minutes. "Within one scan will be a group of slices," said MRI technologist Mary Watkins. "Normally, there are between nine and 12 slices in each scan of each area. The whole thing together is an MRI scan."

All diagnostic work done on the MRI must be ordered by a physician, and appointments are necessary. The unit is staffed and operated by technologists from Somerset Mobile, with medical supervision and interpretation of results provided by SEMC radiologists.

Besides pinpointing disorders of the head and central nervous system, the MRI is being used at St. Elizabeth to:

- Visualize structures of the knee (such as sports injuries) and the temporomandibular joint (TMJ or jaw misalignment).

- Many places are trying to get away from doing knee arthrograms and arthrograms for the TMJ," Watkins said. "It's a lot less painful for patients to get an MRI exam than an arthrogram, plus it gives more information and shows more detail of the cartilage, muscles and tendons."

- Visualize the kidneys, liver, and other internal organs.

- Follow a tumor to see if it's increasing or decreasing in size after cancer treatment.

- And visualize the pelvis and chest.

Cardiac catheterizations, on the other hand, reveal crucial information about a patient's heart, including:

- The location of defects in the various walls and valves of the heart;

- The location and degree of narrowing of the coronary arteries;

- Different pressures in the four chambers.

Both the MRI and cardiac cath services are located on the ground floor of the medical center.

Though this is the 10th year of a chamber-sponsored cleanup, the event has roots back to 1977 when 12 members of a local Girl Scout troop volunteered to clean up the region around the McDonald's restaurant on Johnson Road.

Related to the cleanup is a poster coloring contest now under way in the third grade of local schools, Brown said. Four $50 savings bonds are being provided to winners of the contest, two bonds from Magna Bank and one each from Central Bank and First National Bank in Madison.

County board escapes 'shrinking' trend

While there are calls to reduce the size of some city and other government boards across Illinois, there are no efforts to shrink the 28-member Madison County Board, according to Chairman Nelson Hagnauer.

The board — which could have from five to 29 members under state law — serves the county well, officials say. Until 1972, it had 49 members.

"I see no problems with the size at this time," said Hagnauer, D-Granite City. Hagnauer said he knows of no proposals to reduce the size of the board.

A proposal in Chicago has called for reducing the size of that City Council from its current 50 members and 28 committees.

The next time any change in the size of the Madison County Board could be considered would be when it reapportions districts following the 1990 census. At that time, the board could change the number of districts or could decide to have members elected from the county at large, rather than by districts.

Hagnauer said the board is small enough to allow all board members to have their say. Having fewer members would reduce members' accessibility to their constituents, he said.

Each board member now represents 8,000 to 9,000 people. If the board had nine members, each member would represent 25,000 to 26,000 people, he said.

A smaller board might save the county some money but, if board members represented larger geographical areas and more people, they might want bigger salaries, Hagnauer said. Board members are paid $8,000 per year. "I would leave it just as it is," said James Heil, a Republican from Godfrey who served on the board for 10 years. "I think its present size gives voice to a very good cross-section of the community."

SRPINGFIELD — A California schoolyard shooting that killed five children has prompted an Illinois legislator to propose a bill banning the weapon used in that tragedy.

In January, Patrick Purdy used an AK-47 assault rifle to spray a crowded Stockton, Calif.,

That has prompted State Rep. Barbara Flynn Currie, D-Chicago, to draft legislation to ban the sale and manufacture of the AK-47 and similar semi-automatic weapons in Illinois.

Some believe the bill will fail because the National Rifle Association has the lobbyists to defeat it.

'Woodhenge' beckons curious to experience Spring Equinox

By Pamela Selbert
Staff affiliate

Spring is right around the corner, and that is good news to just about everybody. Those who are especially eager for the new season or who are interested in learning how our Indian forebears reckoned the advent of spring can "experience" the equinox March 19 at Cahokia Mounds near Collinsville.

Early that morning, visitors will gather at the Cahokia Mounds historic site, where they will hear a brief talk on the culture of the Mississippi Indians who lived there.

After sunrise ceremonies, it will be possible to visit the recently opened 33,000-square-foot Cahokia Mounds Interpretive Center. Regular museum hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week.

"The sun was 'god' to these people who lived here between 900 and 1400 A.D.," said Bill Iseminger, a Cahokia Mounds site interpreter. "The leader, whom we might consider a cross between a modern pope and president, since he headed both religion and politics, was considered 'brother of the sun.' He lived on top of Monks Mound, a flat-topped temple mound and the largest earthenwork of the ancient world."

The Mississippi Indians relied on a sun calendar that, at Cahokia, consisted of 48 "perimeter" poles arranged in a 40-foot circle and a central wooden post, from which the Indians told their sights, Iseminger said. The sun calendar has been recreated, with individual posts standing 20 feet tall and having a diameter of 18 inches.

"There are nine poles on the eastern arc of the circle and standing in the circle's center, the rising sun lines up with one of the poles at all times of the year," he said.

It is the beginning of summer when the rising sun lines up with the pole furthest to the north, it is the beginning of winter when it lines up with the pole to the far south. When the sun rises in a straight line with the pole in the middle, it is spring. On the spring equinox, the sun appears to rise directly out of enormous Monks Mound, 100 feet high covering 14 acres, to the east of the sun calendar called "Woodhenge," which is paraphrased from Stonehenge in England. That sun calendar has a similar design but is made of stone.

"Woodhenge was made originally of red cedar poles," Iseminger said. "The re-creation uses aromatic cedar from Missouri, black locust from Illinois, as the red cedar is no longer readily available."

Woodhenge was discovered by accident in the early 1960s, when excavations were being made to lay out I-255, Iseminger said.

Several hundred large oval pits, 4 to 5 feet deep at one end, slanted upward forming a ramp, were found, indicating the presence of a number of sun calendars, he said.

This sun calendar likely was built around 1000 A.D., Iseminger said. "The Mississippi Indians were farmers as well as mound builders. Historians say anywhere between 9,000 and 40,000 people lived in the area. They likely used Woodhenge to determine the best time for planting crops and to plan festivals, Iseminger said."

Also mound builders, the Indians at Cahokia left behind 120 of the earthen structures. The flat-topped mounds are believed to have been topped with temples; round-topped mounds were used for burial; and ridge-topped mounds were used for mass burial and also served as boundaries.

The Indians, though they had no written language, had a relatively highly developed civilization, Iseminger said. A stockade wall encircled their 6-square-mile city and protected them from attackers.

The civilization was at its height around 1100 A.D., but completely disappeared 1400 A.D.

"They may have overused their environment, depleting the land of animals and the ability to produce crops. There may have been a severe drought shortly before they disappeared," Iseminger said. "Other possibilities are the onslaught of a military force or disease, or fighting among classes within the society."

Zoo train back this weekend

The first Zooline train of the season at the St. Louis Zoo will pull out of Vatterli station on March 18, weather permitting.

One of the Zooline's frequent riders, Zoo Director Charles Hoessele said, "It's great fun for everyone, children and adults alike. They can sit back and view the Zoo sights, without having to walk. They also can get on and off the train. It makes four stops on its run."

Last summer Hoessele greeted the 20 millionth person to ride the Zooline since it was begun 25 years ago.

The Zooline Railroad runs daily, from mid-March to November. Individual fares are $1. Groups of 20 or more qualify for a special fare of 75 cents per person.

The line is composed of five gasoline-powered miniature trains, each carrying up to 82 passengers on a scenic 1 1/2-mile journey around the Zoo's perimeter.

With support from the St. Louis Zoo Friends Association, one train is traded in every other year. The oldest train now running is 10 years old.

Elvis Costello's 'Spike' proves worth long wait

By Alan Sculley
Staff affiliate

There is reason to expect something special when a prolific artist like Elvis Costello, who made 11 albums in nine years, takes more than two years to do one LP.

Musically, the record somewhat recalls the artist's 1986 LP, "King, Of America." Like "King," the new album's music has a strong measure of folk and country, two styles that are a far cry from the fevered new wave pop of Costello's early albums.

It is a measure of Costello's songwriting ability that "Spike" can seem similar to an earlier album yet contain specific songs that offer many new directions in his music.

For starters, four of "Spike's" songs feature the work of the Dirty Dozen Brass Band. One of these tunes, "Stalin Malone," is a jagged jazzy horn-filled instrumental.

The horns also are effective in the biting ballad, "Deep Dark Truthful Mirror." A third Dirty Dozen collaboration, the funky "Chewing Gum," finds the horns working off a ragged beat with interesting, if not completely successful, results.

The fourth tune featuring the Dirty Dozen Brass Band is "Miss Macbeth," which creates a fun carnival atmosphere with swirling horns and organ.

Two Irish flavored, lovely folk ballads, "Tramp the Dirt Down" and "Any King's Shilling," are also successful departures from previous Costello songs.

On the other hand, there are a few songs that do recall previous Costello albums. "This Town" and "Veronica" are reminiscent of the irresistible pop of Costello's "Armed Forces" album.

"Veronica" is one of two tunes co-written by Costello and ex-Beatle Paul McCartney. The other is "Pads Paws and Claws," a spirited rockabilly-style raveup.

The hard edged "Let Him Dangle," a stinging indictment of the death penalty, and the wistful ballad "Last Boat Leaving," would have fit comfortably on "King of America."

Show Irish colors with menu

By Janice Denham
Food editor

When the time comes to show who is Irish on St. Patrick's Day, everybody shows his own variety of shamrock in America. Ben Briscoe, lord mayor of Dublin, Ireland, returned after marching at the head of the parade in St. Louis last weekend to celebrate his own holiday. Lorna Farrington, the lord mayor's secretary, says the day starts off with going to church for Mass. Then families will watch the parade, replete with dancers, pipe bands and cheerleaders from the Emerald Isles as well as the United States. Farrington says, "Unlike Christmas, this holiday would be typically Irish at home, with Irish stew. It would be made with beef steak, carrots, onions, parsley, any vegetable that would be on hand. There might be bread which could be dipped in the soup. A salad might go beforehand, lettuce, tomato, ham, onions, coleslaw, cucumbers with mayonnaise. Guinness would be served to drink."

Many restaurants stick with corned beef sandwiches to simplify their offerings. Mark Clements says 10,000 people came through the doors of John D. McGurk's Irish Pub, 1200 Russell, St. Louis, last year on St. Patrick's Day weekend. Along with corned beef sandwiches, bratwurst and burgers are some of the favorite choices there.

Of course, Irish coffee is an easy way to extend the menu for the non-driver at home, following McGurk's recipes. In a cup, combine 1 ounce Irish whiskey and 1 tablespoon brown sugar, then fill with piping-hot coffee. Top with a dollop of whipped cream. Whiskey can be replaced with Irish cream liqueur.

For those who think tea is closer than coffee to a four-leaf clover, celebrate by brewing 3 cups boiling water with 3 tea bags, 3 minutes. Remove tea bags. In each of four mugs, combine 1½ tablespoons whiskey and 1½ teaspoons granulated sugar. Add hot tea and top with whipped cream.

Some people prefer to eat cabbage in other forms, such as coleslaw, so the leprechauns do not take issue with the celebration. Set the table with a touch of the green, arrange real or paper-made shamrocks in a small pitcher and cut biscuits in the shape of shamrocks. Here is another way to slice that corned beef dinner.

Corned-beef and orange-candied vegetables

2½ to 3½ lb. corned beef brisket
Water
¼ cup fresh orange juice
¼ cup packed brown sugar
½ tsp. cornstarch
1 tsp. butter
1 tsp. grated orange peel
1 lb. carrots, cut in ½ inch diagonal pieces
1 medium onion, cut in 8 wedges
Place corned beef brisket in Dutch oven. Add water to cover.

Cover tightly. Simmer 2½ to 3½ hours or until tender.

Combine orange juice, brown sugar and cornstarch in small saucepan. Bring to boil. Cook and stir 2 minutes or until thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in butter and orange peel.

Cook carrots in boiling water, uncovered, 10 minutes. Add onions. Continue cooking 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Drain.

Remove brisket from cooking liquid. Trim excess fat. Place brisket, fat-side up, on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 to 4 inches from heat. Brush 2 tablespoons orange mixture over top of brisket. Broil 3 minutes, or until brisket is glazed.

Pour remaining orange mixture over vegetables. Cook over medium-high heat 1 to 2 minutes until vegetables are glazed.

Carve meat diagonally across grain in thin slices. Serve with candied vegetables.

ADVERTISING Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally!" Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

"Flushes Fat Out of Body"
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat magnet" pill because it breaks millions of fat particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigestible fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatic Fat Loss"
According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and scientific professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a 'lazy way' to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically' reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug!"
The fat magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public
If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calories-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply + $3 handling, or $35 for a 180 pill supply + $3 handling, to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. WX71, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) ROSEMARY M. WILSON

Just getting a high rate of interest on your money is not enough. With most investments, you can lose up to half your earnings each year in taxes.

A better answer is a New York Life Single Premium Retirement Annuity.* It pays a very attractive rate of interest. Equally important, the interest is free from current federal income tax. So your dollars can grow up to twice as fast as they would in a currently taxable plan.

Ask me, your New York Life Agent, for all the details.

By October, Du Pont anticipates having developed product prototypes for IDOT review prior to actual production and field testing.

Our notions about mental illness have a long, dark history. Sadly, age-old fears keep us from seeing mental illness for what it really is: a distressing medical disease. A disease that can be treated. For an informative booklet about mental illness, contact the American Mental Health Fund.

That championship year

Carlyle adds Class A basketball title to list

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

CHAMPAIGN — It hasn't been a bad year for the Carlyle High School athletic program. There have been some bright spots — you know, minor things like state championships in football and basketball. And the Indians' best sport is still to come.

Carlyle pulled off the first football-basketball combo in state history with a 65-56 win over Rock Island All-American in the Class A title game at the Assembly Hall on Saturday.

The Indians got 28 points from 6-8 senior Tom Michael to finish off a 32-3 season, the beginning of which was delayed to let the Indian football team finish off a 14-0 season by winning the Class 2A title in Normal on Nov. 25.

Michael, who will be playing college basketball for the Fighting Illini next year, was the tournament's most valuable player, scoring 98 points in three games in Champaign. Combined with a 23-point effort in the Carbondale Super-Sectional, Michael averaged 30.3 points in four state tournament games, the fifth highest in Class A history. His 45 points in a 67-62 victory over Prairie Central were the second most in the state tournament since the two-class system began in 1972. Lawrenceville's Jay Shidler scored 48 in a 1976 Class A game.

Michael made 47 of 65 shots (72 percent) in the tournament, averaged eight rebounds and blocked 18 shots in three games, one short of the Class A record set in 1984 by Providence-St. Mel's Lowell Hamilton, now at Illinois.

"I wasn't trying for any records," Michael said. "The only record I wanted was winning state."

As impressive as Michael was, there were many other outstanding performances in the highly entertaining final. Carlyle and All-American combined for 16 successful three-pointers in 34 attempts, both tournament records. The Indians made 21 of 33 shots (64 percent) before a crowd of 12,056 and held a 53-33 lead early in the second half. All-American came back behind the shooting of all-star Brian Wolf (21 points) and Todd Woods (20 points, four three-pointers) and trailed by only six when the Indians committed a turnover with 48 seconds left. But John Lund's off-balance shot was off the mark and Michael made a free throw before Steve Hoffman added two more to clinch it.

Hoffman, Scott Horner and

Eddie Huels all played for the Indian football team. Horner was the quarterback. Carlyle coach Brad Weathers was thrilled with the win and anxious to pass the scepter on to the man who started this championship season.

"I guess the pressure is on our baseball coach now," said Weathers. "But he (Gary Wheeler) is also our football coach, so he was the one who started it."

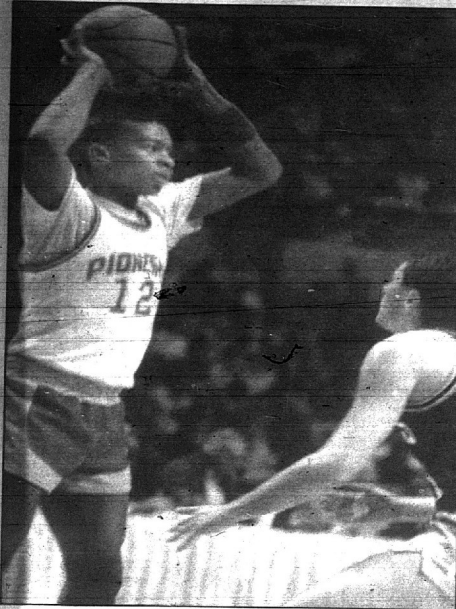

Carlyle won a state baseball title in 1981 and consistently fields good teams on the diamond. And with the way things have gone so far at Carlyle this school year, nothing is out of the question.

"We talked about winning in football after the semifinal win," said Horner, who got sick on the floor during the semifinal game. "That experience helped us."

Horner, who also had six assists, hit two three-pointers in the first two minutes and 6-8 Jason Peters hit three treys in the first half as the Indians took a 33-18 halftime lead. Peters was shut out in the second half, but Michael was relentless. Still, the Pioneers closed the gap with five three-pointers in the second half.

"I thought we played great defense for three quarters," said

MALCOLM HILL, of East St. Louis Assumption looks to make a pass during Friday's state quarterfinal game, a 68-58 loss to Prairie Central, at Champaign's Assembly Hall.

Pioneers' flickering light is extinguished

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

CHAMPAIGN — Ron Woods was fond of saying the light was still flickering for the East St. Louis Assumption basketball program after each win in the postseason. The light was extinguished Friday afternoon.

A 68-58 loss to Fairbury Prairie Central ended the Pioneers' season at 24-8. It was Assumption's most successful season ever. They won the first regional, sectional and super-sectional in school history and went to state for the first time.

All these firsts are also lasts because of a decision by the Belleville Diocese in January to close the high school at the end of the school year. Friday's loss was the benediction to a basketball program that seemed ready to burst into statewide prominence with the hiring of Woods two years ago.

"It hasn't hit me yet," said Woods in a quiet locker room minutes after the game. "And I don't think it has hit the players yet. There will be some tears later. I'm sure."

Assumption was 41-15 the past two years under Woods, who had been a successful coach at Clark Junior High School in East St. Louis, coaching the likes of LaPhonso Ellis and Rico Sylvester, who went on to Lincoln High School. He also brought players like Monteff Dixon, Ronald Scott, Ian Stanback and Maurice Horton with him to Assumption.

"This is it," he said. "It's the end. It's the end, but we can say we were on the best team in school history."

It's small consolation to know that no Pioneer team has surpassed this year's squad. One that might have would have been the 1989-90 team. Dixon, Hill and Vernon Slaughter were the only seniors on this year's team.

There figures to be a mad scramble among area high schools for a wealth of talent headed by Stanback, the 6-7 center. Scott, the powerful 6-5 forward, and Horton, the 5-10 point guard. There is also plenty of potential in players like Artagius Williams, Damon Mason and Almontie Shields, who were all juniors this year as well.

Where the nucleus of the team goes will likely depend on Woods.

"I've told them that we might be together again," he said. "We'll probably make some decisions by the end of the school year. I've had some offers at some other schools in the metro east. And I'm sure

Jig preferred for spring fishing

When it comes to early spring-time fishing — no matter what you're trying to catch — the jig's up, way up, on top of the list of preferred lures to use.

Bass anglers from ocean to ocean and border to border tend to agree that the venerable jig-and-pig is a favored choice for catching big bass and lots of bass.

And when white bass make their spring spawning run up the running creeks and rivers that feed the lakes, it's tough to beat

Rod 'n Gun
By Bill Seibel
a marabou jig as a fish catcher. The same goes for walleye. And for crappie.

Those of you who read last week's column about the opening of trout season at Missouri's four parks saw tiny jigs mentioned several times.

At the opposite end of the spectrum, my KNOX Radio partner, fishing pro Tony Albright, has caught several striped bass above the 35-pound mark on extra-light spinning tackle with 6-pound-test line and the lure was a small jig!

Obviously, a jig is not a jig is not a jig. There are major differences in the types of lures we generally categorize as jigs. The basic criteria is that a jig is a hook with a bit of lead molded to it for a weight. The hook then is dressed with some form of action-giving material, such as marabou feathers, bucktail, artificial (usually nylon) hair, rubber-band legs or some form of soft plastic.

In addition, some form of preserved pork rind or soft plastic is attached to the back of the hook as a trailer — hence the name jig-and-pig.

The size of the jig and type of dressing, as well as the type of trailer — if any — that the angler selects will be dictated by the species of fish and conditions he encounters.

For example, most trout anglers will use jigs of 1/80 to 1/100 of an ounce with flyrods or jigs of 1/64 up to 1/16 of an ounce on ultra-light spinning tackle. Most prefer a dressing of all marabou or a chenille body with a marabou tail, although some will use soft plastic bodies where the law allows the use of such lures.

White bass fishermen usually prefer 1/16, 1/8 or, sometimes in rough or fast water, 1/4-ounce jigs. Marabou is a favored dressing, but some anglers like bucktail.

Bass anglers use the most variety. While most modern fishermen have gone to the so-called live rubber dressings on their jigs, which range from 1/8 up to 3/4 of an ounce. The heavier jigs are special-use affairs, while most bass casters will use 1/8, 1/4- or 3/8-ounce jigs for most purposes. In most instances, a pork frog is the preferred trailer, added to the rubber-skirted bass jig.

However, in the springtime a slow-falling lure is highly desirable. A lightweight jig dressed with bucktail or artificial hair and sporting a pork trailer will fall much slower than the rubber-dressed lure because the bucktail or artificial hair offers more resistance to the water.

Allbright fishes the crystal clear waters of Bull Shoals Lake a lot, so he has adapted by using a white 1/8- or 3/8-ounce bucktail jig with the curly-tailed portion of a 6-inch white Mr. Twister worm as a trailer. He fishes this lure by casting it a long way, allowing it to sink slowly and then slowly and steadily reeling it back. It imitates a minnow of the size common at this time of year.

Allbright will catch a mix of largemouth, smallmouth and spotted bass on this lure, as well as an occasional large white bass or even a massive striped. When the latter hits, Tony pulls up his electric motor and has his fishing partner fire up the big engine so he can keep up with the running fish.

For crappie or trout that are holding at a fixed depth, there is a little trick that works very well. Simply affix a bobber or float (some trout fly fishermen call them "indicators") to hold the lure at a correct depth. If there is a little breeze, the bobber will bounce the lure seductively until a fish strikes.

Whatever your favorite species, as the waters warm up and the fishing fever gets to you, give a jig a try — you'll like the results.

that some of these guys will go with me."

Schools like Belleville Althoff, Lincoln, East St. Louis and Venice all figure to be in the running for the returning players. Meanwhile, it's time to wrap up the current program.

"I'll collect all the uniforms, we'll have them cleaned and then each player will get his uniform back to keep at the banquet in a couple weeks," Woods said. "We just have to look at all the positive things. This was the best team in school history."

The loss to Prairie Central eliminated the possibility of East St. Louis taking state titles in Class A and Class AA basketball in the same year. But Woods is still rooting for the Lincoln Tigers.

"We wish Lincoln a lot of luck," he said. "I got a call from their assistant coach, Jethro Brown, before we came up here and he told us what to expect. It was a class move on his part. A lot of guys were played with Rico Sylvester (Lincoln guard) at Clark, so I know they will be rooting for them."

If the Tigers win Tuesday's super-sectional, they will be gunning for their third straight state title in Champaign this weekend.

"I was talking to (athletic director) Jim Monken at practice on Wednesday," Woods said. "I realized that was the last practice we would ever have in the Assumption gym. After practice was over, I just sat there and looked around. We had a great time."

Weathers. "And we were able to get them out of their zone and that opened up the middle for Michael."

"They killed us early with the three-pointers," said Althoff coach Bob DeDoncker. "Horner did a great job. He'd kick it outside for the three-pointers one time, then kick it inside to Michael the next time. They really use all their strengths."

Baseball is another strength of the Indians. Watch out this spring.

Get in on ground level: Start plants from seed

Starting plants from seed indoors can be fun, and in fact may be the only way to obtain newly introduced varieties.

No matter whether you are planting perennials or annuals, it is important to use fresh seed and sterile media.

The sowing time of annuals will vary, depending on how long it takes a particular plant to flower when grown from seed. Begonias and geraniums, which take about 14 weeks to flower from seed, should be sown immediately. Geranium seed sown now should be in bloom by early May.

Impatiens, marigold, ageratum and other annuals may be sown later. Most seed catalogs indicate how long it takes for a plant started from seed to produce the first bloom.

Some annuals need light to germinate so seed is just sown on the surface, then lightly pressed into the top.

Others are planted more deeply. Though these may be kept in the dark prior to germination, strong light is required as soon as the first seedlings show.

Many perennials can be grown easily from seed but they should be sown as early as possible. Perennials, once established will flower year after year, rewarding the grower with good color and cutting material.

If space for starting plants from seed is limited or lighting is poor, consider using grow lights in a spare room or basement. The usual shop lights sold in hardware stores are ideal. Good lighting for seedlings can be obtained by using fluorescent tubes of 40 watts, combining cool white with warm white. Another possibility is to use Grow-Lux tubes. Although they are more expensive than the other options, they are designed specifically for use on growing plants.

All seedlings need 14 to 16 hours of light per day. Timers are an excellent way to regulate

Gardening

By Bob Dingwall

this, with a minimum of inconvenience. Lights should not be on for 24 hours a day because plants need a period of darkness for proper photosynthesis to occur.

The source of light should be as close to the tops of the plants as possible without burning them. Test by placing your hand just over the plants.

Remember to raise lights gradually as plants grow. Seedlings that are growing actively need to be kept moderately moist but never watch for signs of damping off plants will suddenly fall over, as if cut just above the media line).

Use a recommended fungicide for control. This information can be obtained from your garden center or a seed house.

Keep plants growing actively with regular feedings of liquid fertilizer, used according to label directions.

Seedlings are ready for transplanting as soon as the third pair of leaves emerge. Transplant into trays or single containers, making sure the container you choose are not too large for the plants. Water and feed as needed and keep in strong light.

With good selection and proper care, you will soon have young plants that will reward you with good color for late spring and summer.

Do you have problems with your garden or household plants? If so, direct your questions to: The Garden Spot, St. Louis News Service, 1215 Fern Ridge Parkway, Suite 108, St. Louis, Mo. 63111.

Artificial light can make basement OK for plants

Space for growing plants indoors is limited, especially when you want to hold over garden plants for the winter.

The basement is an ideal place to grow plants that like cooler temperatures. If you want to grow plants that like warmer temperatures, then heat part of the basement by using a heat duct directed to an area that is enclosed and can conserve the heat. Electric heaters also do a good job.

Many sources of artificial light can be used. It is best to have a qualified electrician set up your light system so you can avoid faulty or inadequate wiring. Lights should be set up so they can be raised and lowered according to what plant you want to grow. The amount of light needed will depend on what you are growing. Flowering plants will need a stronger light than most foliage plants.

Plants need a good source of light for at least 16 hours a day, but most plants also need a period of darkness to live properly. Timers are excellent to use for turning lights on and off and save the worry of forgetting to do it at the proper time. Timers are relatively inexpensive.

When weather gets tough, the tough plants continue growth

Gardeners may be saying goodbye and good riddance to a year marked by prolonged drought but there is no assurance that the same harsh conditions will not return in 1989.

So, when selecting seed, it is a good idea to take a lesson from the Boy Scout motto, "Be prepared" by planning a garden that can stand up to Mother Nature's worst.

The first and foremost consideration is to choose plant types that are drought- and heat-resistant. This information is given in all seed catalogs. Also keep in mind that it is important to choose those varieties that are the most insect- and disease-free.

To ensure a good start, seeds should be planted in sterile media. After emerging, plants will need strong light so they do not become thin and leggy. Seedlings should be fertilized on a regular basis and never allowed to wilt for an extended period.

When purchasing seedlings for planting outside, be sure to choose only those that look healthy. To ensure hardiness, buy named varieties rather than those identified just by color.

Garden soil should be well-prepared ahead of time. Though raised beds allow plants to get an early start, they will dry out faster during drought periods and may not be a wise idea.

Soil should be tested to identify what nutrients are needed based on what is being grown in a specific area.

Prior to planting, a generous supply of partially decayed organic matter, such as leaf mold or compost, should be incorporated thoroughly into the soil. Set plants out on a cloudy day or late afternoon and protect them for a day or so until new roots are established.

When sowing seed or setting out plants, leave a small depression around the base to hold rainwater or the moisture that you supply when watering. Use a plant-starter fertilizer to water in new plants to help avoid shock in transplanting. Root disturbance should be kept to a minimum. Use a mulch around plants as early as possible to conserve moisture and maintain cooler conditions.

When feeding established plantings of vegetables and annuals with a liquid or solid Exhibitors will display a full array of home improvement and building products ranging from elegant decorator touches through building materials to state-of-the-art lawn equipment.

The Mid-America Home Exposition is sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Madison County and has grown each year to become a major event in the county.

This 1989 show is the most complete and largest ever, due in large part to the coordination efforts of Marie Plarski, the current public relations director for the expo.

The 167 available booths were a total sell-out by December, guaranteeing a full house of professional exhibitors.

The Home Show will be presented at the Vandalabene Center at SIUE on Friday, March 17, from 5 to 10 p.m.; Saturday, March 18, from noon to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, March 19, from noon to 6 p.m.

An admission fee of $2 for adults will be charged. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

A $1 coupon will be placed in the Home Expo Magazine which will be included in local Madison County papers' March 15 issue. The coupon may be used toward the admission price.

The Home Expo Magazine will be a keepsake issue including advertisers from all over Madison County and parts of Missouri as well as many useful and informative articles.

This complete guide to home improvement and building needs will also be your guide to the Expo.

Expo exhibits will include spas, a gazebo, a full-sized screening room, participatory exhibits and more.
